

Our sole business is - and always has been - project management.

Since 1976, Project Control has been providing building owners with independent project management services for major construction projects.

Our primary objective is – and always has been – representing the owner’s best interest on all issues, while also assuming the demanding management responsibilities and technical overview associated with major construction.

When you’re thinking about a building project, consider a proven resource – Project Control. Let us be the foundation of your building success.
